'I Am the Fall Guy,' Mrs. Hodge Claims

Tells Senate Prober to Ask 'Other Woman'

Says She Had Little Chance to Know of Activities

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Orville E. Hodge told U. S. Senate investigators Thursday "somebody made a lot of money and I am the fall guy" in her husband's embezzlement of more than one million dollars in state funds.

The wife of the former Illinois state auditor met in a three-hour conference with investigators of the Senate Banking and Currency committee looking into Hodge's misuse of public money.

Hodge resigned his post and withdrew as the Republican candidate for re-election. Later, he was sentenced to 12 to 15 years in prison.

Senate investigator Robert Wallace summoned Mrs. Hodge for questioning following her published statement that others were involved in the embezzlement.

Mrs. Hodge told Wallace he should ask "the other woman" in her husband's life, Bonita Lillie, for information about the case.

Miss Lillie, an interior decorator, has been described as Hodge's companion during his visits to Chicago.

Denies Knowledge of Money

"I feel the full story is not out," Mrs. Hodge said. She refused to answer questions from newsmen outside the conference room, but Wallace briefed the reporters on parts of her conversation.

She denied knowledge of how much money her husband made off with from the state treasury through fraudulent checks.

"They say it was 1.2 million dollars. Why don't they prove it?" she said. "I don't have the money."

Earlier this week, she disclosed she had hired Morris Shenker, a St. Louis attorney, to make an attempt to regain some of the estate she and her husband turned over to the state to make up funds spent by Hodge.

"We want from the state whatever she has coming," Shenker said outside the conference room. "We are engaging an auditor to segregate her property from his."

The Senate investigators called Mrs. Hodge in for questioning as a preliminary step to opening hearings.

Eugene Potts Is Arrested On Rape Charge

Eugene Potts, 27, last night was arrested on a warrant charging him with rape.

Potts, Harrisburg man, had been out of the state penitentiary at Menard only 30 days when he was picked up. He was arrested at Carrier Mills by Sheriff William T. Barrett and Deputies Everett N. Sneed and Jeff Stricklin.

Potts is charged with raping at gunpoint a Harrisburg woman, whose name was not divulged. The act occurred in her home, officers said.

Potts, who has had brushes with law-enforcement officers since 1944, when he was a lad of 15 years, had served nearly four years at Menard when released a month ago.

He had been placed on three-year probation on an armed robbery charge in Saline county circuit court and was sentenced to the state penitentiary to a one to five year term for violation of his probation, starting his sentence Nov. 20, 1952.

Officers said they found no gun when they arrested Potts.

Belleville Firm Named to Audit County Books

Action by Board Follows Request By Grand Jury

BULLETIN

A committee from the Saline County Board of Supervisors today selected the Belleville, Ill., auditing firm, Rice and Bedel, to audit county books in compliance with a request of the circuit court grand jury. The action is subject to the approval of the state's attorney and circuit judge. Committee members who made the selection were Alvin Gates, Aubrey Giles and Vernon Smith.

The Saline County Board of Supervisors today acted to employ a new auditing firm to audit county books, as requested by the circuit court grand jury.

Named by Chairman Howard Patterson to select a firm, subject to the approval of State's Attorney Robert V. Wilson and Circuit Judge C. Ross Reynolds, was the following committee of board members: Aubrey Giles of Eldorado, Alvin K. Gates of Cottage and Vernon Smith of Harrisburg.

Patterson named the committee following the unanimous passage of a motion made by William Douglas, Harrisburg, which called for the chairman to appoint the committee to select an auditing firm to work with the grand jury in its investigation, the firm to be approved by the state's attorney and presiding judge of the September term of circuit court. No further board action on the selection will be necessary.

Want Full Audit

The grand jury on Sept. 28 submitted a resolution requesting that the county board hire a new auditor or auditing firm for an audit of books of public officials and employees of Saline county. Today's special meeting was called for this purpose.

State's Attorney Wilson, in answering questions of various board members about the grand jury request, said the grand jury wants a full audit of the county, that the audit probably will go back to 1953, as the statute of limitation precludes anything earlier, as far as getting it into evidence in court.

When Herman McFarlin of Independence township asked him "What's the matter with Coker and Coker (the Peoria firm that has audited the county books for years) Wilson replied: "All I know is that the grand jury is not satisfied with them."

Giant Sailfish Caught by Mrs. Wm. J. Blackard is On Display

People who would like to see a giant sailfish on display have the opportunity by visiting the Athletic House in Harrisburg.

There one can see the mounted specimen caught by Mrs. William J. Blackard off the coast of Florida last June 4. The fish arrived in Harrisburg Tuesday afternoon.

Weight of the big fish was 59 pounds when caught. Its length was seven feet, nine inches. And it was big enough to bring to Mrs. Blackard, wife of a Harrisburg physician, two citations.

At the time it was caught, it was the largest sailfish to be brought in to Pompano Beach during the season and it brought fishing honors to the woman who brought it in to her boat in about 25 minutes after it struck the hook.

Other Fish Caught First

For successfully bringing in the fish, biggest in the Pompano tournament until late in July, Mrs. Blackard received citations from the Pompano Beach Chamber of Commerce and the Rudy Schaefer fishing contest.

Mrs. Blackard, her daughter, Carolyn, and Miss Joan Davis of St. Louis chartered the boat Rip-tide IV, captained by Bud Mail-loux, for the successful trip, which also brought in three dolphins, one king mackerel, one bonito and one tuna fish, besides the big one.

They were fishing in Hillsboro Inlet off Pompano Beach when the sailfish struck.

"We had been throwing bonito strips into the water in an attempt to lure sailfish and were fishing with our hooks baited with these strips," Mrs. Blackard related.

"We were just starting off to a place where the captain said would be a school of sailfish when this one struck," she continued.

Fought Fish 25 Minutes

"I fought for about 25 minutes in landing it, using rod and reel. I couldn't be helped because it would be against the rules. Several times I said I didn't believe I could bring it in, but the captain kept shouting encouragement. By the time it was in the boat I was crying and I was shaking all over."

Federal Grand Jury Indicts Three Former Bankers in Check Scandal

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted three former bankers on charges of misapplying and taking funds from a bank involved in the Hodge scandal.

Indicted were Hyman Marcus, former board chairman of the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co.; his brother, Leon, a former board member and for a time acting chairman; and Martin Rosine, Hyman's son-in-law and a former vice president of the bank.

The Southmoor bank cashed fraudulent checks in the scandal which sent state auditor Orville Hodge to prison, along with Southmoor President Edward A. Hintz and Hodge's assistant, Edward Epping.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Frank McGar said the indictment today concerned violations that preceded the Hodge case.

The indictment charged that the Marcus brothers and Rosine misapplied and abstracted federally insured funds in three special accounts.

These were known as the Southmoor Securities Fund, the Southmoor Foundation and the H. L. Marcus special account.

The indictment also charged conspiracy, and falsification of records.

On all of the 11 counts, the defendants could be subject to a total of 55 years imprisonment and fines totaling $60,000 each.

McGar said the case was referred to the Justice Department by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which uncovered irregularities during a periodic checkup.

Coal Firm Increases Price 35 Cents Ton After New Contract

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Appalachian Coals Inc., representing 75 major mines in four states, today announced an immediate 35 cent per ton increase in the price of soft coal.

The price hike followed a signing of a new contract giving 150,000 soft coal miners the nation's highest wages in any major industry.

The marketing agency for major producers in Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia and Tennessee said another increase will go into effect Next April 1, but did not say how much.

A one-year package agreement was signed late Thursday by John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers chief, and Edward G. Fox president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

The two-step contract will give the miners 30 cents more an hour for an additional $2.40 a day. Two dollars of that amount is in wages and 40 cents in fringe benefits.

The first step in the wage increase, $1.20 a day, is retroactive to last Monday. The second step, 80 cents, goes into pay envelopes next April 1.

The miner will be earning a minimum of $22.25 a day but the figure actually will be higher for most men in the pits.

UMW leaders say the average hourly rate of the soft coal miner is considerably above that of the steelworker, auto worker or general factory employee.

Under the new contract, the miners will also be paid double time for holidays worked. They are already paid double time for

Local Printers, Printing Firms Sign Contract

A wage agreement between the Harrisburg Typographical Union and employing publishing houses in Harrisburg and Eldorado has been reached, effective October 1.

Employers agreeing to the contract are the Register Publishing Co. and Harrisburg Printers of Harrisburg and the Eldorado Daily Journal and the Eldorado Printing Co., operated by Mrs. Ruby Drobeck.

These are the only union establishments in Saline county.

The new agreement provides for a wage increase of 10 cents per hour to $2.05.

Vacations of two weeks, pay for seven holidays not worked and sick leave accumulative to five weeks are other provisions of the contract.

Glenn Long, 44, Eldorado, Dies Of Auto Injuries

One of the two Eldorado men injured late Wednesday in a motor car collision on Route 13 near Equality, died today in Ferrell hospital in Eldorado.

Dead is Glenn Long, 44, driver of the auto that figured in a side-swiping with an auto driven by Marshall Rigby, 34, of Shawneetown. Long died at 1:40 a. m. today. Reports were he never gained consciousness following the collision.

Reported in semi-critical condition was Ola Tucker, 58, passenger in the Long car, who is in Pearce hospital at Eldorado. Tucker, a brother of Mrs. L. J. "Duke" Holland of this city, suffered a broken hip, a fractured vertebra and three broken ribs. An operation to place a pin in the hip will be necessary, his sister said.

The collision occurred near the top of the first hill on Route 13 east of the highway that leads into Equality, in Gallatin county.

Officers said that the two Eldorado men were travelling toward Eldorado and that Rigby, with his wife and two children, were going toward Shawneetown when the cars crashed.

The Rigby car remained in control but the Eldorado machine veered to the left and crashed down the steep embankment on the south side of the road, landing in a wrecked condition on the Equality road right-of-way.

Both were rushed to the Eldorado hospital.

The left side of the Rigby car was damaged extensively but none of the occupants was injured.

Long's body was moved to the Eldorado funeral home. Coroner Elmer M. Gibbons was making an investigation into his death today.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel; two sons, Terry and Rex, and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Paul Massey, Mrs. Floyd Curry, Mrs. Al Edgar and Mrs. Jesse Barnett, all of Eldorado, Mrs. Iva J. J. Long, Mrs. Mary Olsen, Earl Long and Jim Long, all of Detroit, Mich.

Schoolgirl, 12, Hacks Aunt to Death With Axe, Kitchen Knives

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A slender 12-year-old schoolgirl hacked her aunt to death with an axe and two kitchen knives Thursday rather than explain how she lost her $5 weekly allowance—but she couldn't go through with plans to ambush her uncle.

Police said the girl, Patricia Corcoran, of Mitchell, S. D., came to live with her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bunce, several months ago.

Patricia told authorities she lost a $5 bill that was her allowance while attending seventh grade at Bret Hart Junior High School Thursday. Fearing she would be punished, she went to catechism classes at St. Jarlath's Roman Catholic Church.

When she arrived home, she got a hand ax from the garage and sat on it on the living room couch, waiting for her aunt to return from work.

Mrs. Bunce, 55, arrived home from her clerk's job at the Oakland Naval Supply Center and exchanged "Hi" greetings with Patricia. She then asked the girl what she did with the $5 weekly allowance her uncle gave her.

A few minutes later the aunt walked into the living room and the girl swung the axe, hitting Mrs. Bunce on the left side of the head.

"Auntie didn't say a word after the first time I hit her," police quoted the girl as saying. She then stabbed the woman with a butcher knife "until it bent," and then again with a bread knife.

The girl said she then stood on a washing machine near the door waiting to ambush her uncle. When the 54-year-old machinist arrived home from work she was unable to go through with the act. She dropped the axe and led him to his wife's slashed body.

Gives Statement In Reply to Stevenson Plan

President Says Chances of Tax Cut Soon are Not Bright

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today it would be foolish for the United States to stop H-bomb testing without getting a foolproof agreement with Russia and the rest of the world to do the same.

Mr. Eisenhower set forth his position in a news conference statement replying to Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson's proposal to ban H-bomb tests.

The President also said he has found it necessary to intensify his campaigning to clear away what he called the underbrush of opposition misstatements.

When he was asked if his physicians had placed any limitation on his campaigning, Mr. Eisenhower said on the contrary they have been telling him he can do more than he wants to do.

The president also said the chances of any immediate tax cuts are not bright. He said there must be more cuts in government spending before it would be logical to reduce taxes.

Concerning H-bomb tests the President declared that the American purpose in conducting such experiments is to develop clean bombs which will not create a widespread radioactive hazard.

He said that if this country stopped testing on its own, there would be nothing to prevent Russia from going ahead with laboratory development work and achieving tremendous advantages while the United States stood still.

Any such unilateral action by this country would, he said, be foolish.

Replies to Stevenson

Other highlights of the President's news conference:

1. He said on the eve of the United Nations Security Council debate on the Suez Canal that he still is convinced a peaceful settlement of the crisis is possible.

2. He specifically replied to charges made by Stevenson in New York Thursday night that this administration has been making "Johnny-come-lately claims" in an attempt to "seize partisan credit" for federal civil rights action.

Inflation is Bipartisan

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

It is common nowadays to say that both major parties are pretty much the same, and most political sages support the idea. It can also be fairly said that what the two parties do when they control
the national administration is not vastly different.

No one would contend for an instant that the President and Congress—whatever their political color—do not make policies that shape events. They do indeed, and sometimes exert a tremendous influence upon the course of history both at home and abroad.

But it is also true that events go far to shape policy. And because they do, the government's response is often the same no matter who controls it.

Take the matter of inflation, for example. From the outset of the problem in the United States.
Swelling population, expansion, unprecedented demand for goods and services, all these contribute to the inflationary pressures of this busy era.

Government financial experts and economists are continuously concerned with keeping it in check.
But they cannot apply the brakes recklessly at any point, for lurking in the back of their minds is another fear: depression.

Their task is constantly to seek a delicate balance between the forces making for inflation and those that would push into too severe deflation. In consequence, what they do is almost always compromise and often somewhat makeshift.

Under postwar Democratic regimes, inflation was not at first viewed as too alarming and was allowed to gain considerable momentum. But midway in Mr. Truman's second term the upward spiral was halted.

When President Eisenhower took over, the controls were kept at reasonably effective levels, though at times credit appeared too loose on home mortgages and installment buying. Now, however, another upward movement has begun and the key officials are fretting once more on how hard to apply the brakes.

When inflation hits, both parties
seek to make political capital out of it, and sometimes effectively.
But it is evident that the problem is thoroughly bipartisan and will be with us no matter who holds power. At any given time one or the other party may have it in check, but at other times it will not.

The voter who imagines he will get rid of inflation by voting for either the Democrats or the Republicans is living in a wishful world. It looks as if we will have either the threat or the reality of it with us for a long time. And neither party's experts have any panacea for dealing with it.

They both have to worry it through, just like the millions of Americans who suffer from its ravages on their pocketbooks.

Increase in Crime Spares
No Section of the Nation

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Behind the latest Federal Bureau of Investigation crime statistics for the six months ending last June 30
are a number of conclusions,
alarming even to police officials accustomed to dealing with these things. These findings are not covered in the published crime report.

Total crime increased in all nine geographic divisions of the U. S.

The highest of these increases was 34.7 per cent in the Pacific coast states. The lowest increase was in the Middle Atlantic states, up 3.5 per cent over the first six months of 1955.

New England has traditionally had the lowest crime rates in the United States. But in the first half of this year the northeastern states showed a surprising 17.3 per cent increase.

For the United States as a whole,
the major crime rate was 14 per cent higher than for the same period last year and nearly 22 per cent above the five-year average.

BASED ON the half-year reports, FBI officials now fear that the United States will have a record of over 2,500,000 major crimes in 1956. Major crimes are listed as murder, negligent manslaughter,
rape, robbery, aggravated assault,
burglary, larceny and auto theft.

Looking for interpretations, causes and possible remedies for the growing U. S. crime wave, police come up with no very convincing answers.

The record increase on the Pacific coast is attributed to two factors.

One is that the population of this area is increasing more rapidly.
A new population, unsettled in a community, always breeds crime.

The second factor, attributable only to California, is a recent state supreme court ruling which excludes evidence offered in criminal trials, if it has been secured with taint. Los Angeles police officials declare that criminals who know that their conviction will be difficult take chances with the law that they would not risk otherwise.

EVERY CLASSIFICATION of major crime showed an increase on the Pacific coast. The range was from a low of 11 per cent increase in robberies to a 40 per cent increase in auto thefts.

Only two of the 48 states had decreases in their total crimes. Wyoming showed a drop of nearly 11 per cent and New Hampshire six per cent. No explanations are offered.

Six major crimes are committed in cities for every one crime in rural areas. But for the first half of this year the rural crime increase rate was slightly higher than for urban areas.

The explanation given is that there is less policing in the rural areas and there are fewer community facilities to offer wholesome recreation and diversion for criminally inclined youth.

More automobiles and better roads on which to make getaways
are also believed to be a factor.
There is no statistical breakdown, however, to show how many of the rural crimes are committed by city criminals.

THE BIGGER the city, the higher its crime rate, as a general rule.
FBI reports from 482 cities of over 25,000 population showed that only

Diamond Tooth Causes Trouble for Owner

HURON, S. D. — A J. C.
Johnson had a diamond set in a gold tooth so "I can take something with me when I die," but it's causing him some trouble.

Letters began pouring into Johnson's home soon after it was published that he had the glittering tooth. One woman wrote that Johnson is "the type of man I am looking for."

He said he especially gets impatient when women stop him on the street and then telephone their friends to come down and take a look.

"That all takes time," he complained.

SHE'S AN INDIAN TOO—Patricia Hurley, 18, of Casper, Wyo., has become the second white woman in history to be adopted into the Arapaho Indian tribe. Her father, Waldo Hurley, was made a chief and dubbed Red Eagle 14 years ago, in gratitude for numerous favors he did the tribe. Above, at ceremony in Casper, Patricia faces the West as Chief Lone Bear (Andrew Brown) touches her four times with a feather, saying in Arapaho, "As an Arapaho, I name you Becananasae (Plume Woman)." That made her an Arapaho, too. (Exclusive NEA Photo)

Army Developing Atomic Weapons To Reduce Need for Plane Support
ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md. (AP) — The Army is developing new atomic weapons that are expected to reduce its dependence on air force fighter planes for battlefield support.
Among them is a relatively light weight 175 mm cannon which apparently can fire atomic shells. The new cannon is a marked contrast to the cumbersome 280 mm atomic cannon of which the Army was so proud only a few years ago.
The 175 mm cannon was included in a group of weapons demonstrated here Thursday for about 5,000 members and guests of the American Ordnance Association. The weapons can fire atomic explosives from a few miles to almost 200 miles ahead of troops at the battlefield.
The weapons are a vital factor in current Pentagon discussions about reducing the planned size of the Air Force. Such manpower cuts probably would fall heaviest on the Tactical Air Command, the Air Force arm that works closest with the Army.
Some experts believe that the 175 mm cannon would play a powerful role in knocking out battlefield targets now assigned to much more expensive fighter-bombers.
At Thursday's demonstration, the Army also announced that its 60-foot Redstone missile "will soon take its place" in the nation's arsenal.
Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, chief of the Huntsville, Ala., Army ballistic missile agency, claimed that the Redstone is "completely immune to any presently known types of countermeasures" or defenses.
The Redstone can fire either conventional or atomic warheads and has a reported range of up to 200 miles.

Thinking It Over
By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D. (Written for NEA Service)
SOAP opera is enjoyed by millions of radio listeners because the stories appeal to many of the higher values of normal people. Some critics describe soap opera as "melodramatic" and "emotional." One would think that these adjectives applied to the baser qualities of the human race. Although many of the plots of soap operas may be rather obvious it cannot be said that they are demoralizing. Most of them appeal to our sympathy. Americans need to develop a deeper sympathy for their fellowmen. We need to be inspired to help other people rather than to ignore their plights. All of us would do well to exercise our emotions in the area of brotherhood rather than within the prison walls of hatred which many have constructed.
The basic teachings of faith, love, fellowship and freedom are all found in the Bible. They are also found applied in the lives of the martyrs and saints of history, as well as in the lives of many of our contemporaries.
Some folks choose to criticize any display of emotion as though it were uncontrolled immaturity. They forget that the shortest verse in the Bible says that "Jesus wept." Some parts of the scripture, of the Declaration of Independence and of the Gettysburg Address lift us by means of emotion. Their appeal is not immature.
We ought not to look down our noses at any teaching which lifts us above the level of the mere mundane. Sophistication is no substitute for faith or sympathy.

House Report Shows Partial Cost of Congressmen's Trips
WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers had their first real peek today at the cost of congressional junkets, but there isn't much prospect they will get the whole story.
A House report showed that world-girdling House members in the 12 months ending last June 30 spent $324,389 in foreign currency for "transportation and incidental travel expenses" on trips through 48 nations.
The report covered only outlays of so-called counterparty funds, currency put up for official U. S. use by nations drawing American aid in dollars. Traveling congressmen can draw on these funds.
What the report didn't include was other big cost items, including money spent by the Air Force to fly junketing congressional groups part or all the way on their global inspection circuits.
Average life expectancy of a dollar bill is only nine months, according to the U. S. Treasury.

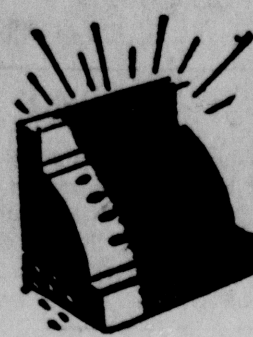

NOT WHAT IT'S QUACKED UP TO BE—Pretty good at honking, themselves, a clan of ducks ignores the bleating horn of a motorist in Belleville, Wis. Last year, several pair of wild mallards made their home in a backwater of Sugar River, just inside the city limits. Residents, amused by the visit, fed and pampered the ducks. This year, no one's amused any more, for the waddlers and offspring now number about 100. The quacking birds threaten to outnumber the native citizenry and tie up all traffic in their search along the roads for food.

We miss you in the morning dear, When all the world is new: We know the day can bring no joy Because it brings not you.

The youth of you—the charm of you,
Your gladness all the while.
The world is full of folks 'tis true,
But there was only one of you.

So great was the disaster, however, that the people in its midst failed to realize the gravity of their peril. By 10:30, although the surviving population was unaware of the fact, the death sentences had been pronounced for almost half the city.

A thing, of pure and living flame,
of incredible violence and depth,
of a destructive capacity greater than that of the atomic bomb itself, reared itself high above the thousands of scattered fires in the wrecked city.

The bomb had exploded at exactly 9:33 p. m. The blast rushed from the miniature sun to tear into wreckage the flimsy homes and structures in the city's tenement area. Electrical connections short-circuited, coal stoves overturned,
gas range burners and the pipes which fed them, all flamed. The unleashed fire licked hungrily at the debris strewn across the blasted ruins. Into thousands of buildings, throughout an area encompassing more than 5,000 acres, the fires were borne and began to spread.

The stunned, injured and panic-stricken survivors made only futile attempts to quell the flames.
Within 45 minutes at least two out of every three buildings within a five-square-mile area were blazing fiercely.

As the flames joined, even those buildings which had been spared

the torch suddenly ignited with explosive violence. The intense heat reached across streets to wither
plant and set aflame wood; balls
of fire hurtled from collapsing structures and formed crimson arches to spill flame into untouched buildings. Even large areas temporarily spared from fire could not remain inviolate.

Then the wind, born of the writhing fire ocean, began. The blazing sea rearing high above Harrington soon created over the center of the fire area a vertical column of boiling, superheated gases. The gases spun, whirled, and ascended with frightening velocity above the city, into the troposphere and beyond, thrusting more than eight miles high into the stratosphere a murky, black, smoke-andsoot-laden pillar of turbid air.

Ninety thousand human souls were borne to eternity in this inferno.

Within the five-square-mile area of the firestorm, only those civil defense disaster units able to evacuate soon after receiving Colonel Buyers' orders survived the holocaust.

There were dangers other than that of fire in the evacuation area.
As some trucks started to evacuate, they were set upon by screaming, panicky mobs which saw in the moving vehicles a means of salvation. Maddened by the blistering heat, the thunder of flames and collapsing buildings, the terrorized citizens clambered aboard the fire trucks. At first the firemen assisted the refugees, instinctively aiding in the work of survival. Only for a few minutes, however, until the first waves became shrieking mobs whose only thought was of their own survival.

The greatest number of survivors were those who fled through the open expanse of Crandall Park,
the lake of which lay only a few blocks from the Scarsdale Ave.
evacuation line. Yet even here
those people who reached safety represented only a fraction of the number which originally poured into the park, moving toward the lake which promised survival.

The crowds pressed in ever-greater numbers against those people at the water's edge. Exhausted, burned refugees were forced into the water. Many attempted to swim the lake and drowned.
Others unable to swim were borne along by the struggling mobs and sank beneath the surface.

Rowboats were fought over in desperation until many overturned and foundered. Others carried their passengers to the lake's eastern shores where a solid curtain of water from the engines awaited them on the road to safety.

Then suddenly the velocity of the wind burst from a gale into a hurricane. Sobbing children were torn from their parents' hands and whirled into the fire. Bowled over by the wind, adults were dragged into the flames struggling desperately, bloody fingers raking furrows in the blackened soil, dying before they were consumed in the fiery carnage. More hardy souls clambered over hundreds of smoking corpses and struggled to the apparent safety of the water's edge. The sick, the infirm, the aged, and wounded begged for assistance as would-be rescuers abandoned them to a fiery fate.

By four o'clock on the morning of Nov. 29, six and one-half hours after the attack, the last human being to escape the fire storm lurched into the waiting arms of firemen on Scarsdale Avenue.

Every available piece of fire apparatus was set up in an irregular, giant ring beyond the edge of the firestorm. Although the wind blew constantly toward a common center and eliminated the danger of fire spread in this manner, the heat was so intense that structures blocks away from the actual flames were ignited. The fire trucks at the periphery of the storm directed water streams at the buildings

Dr. Dorris is director of the Col-which had not yet been set afire, hoping to keep them sufficiently cooled to prevent fire spread by fight the actual flames was useless, since the lashing wind and blistering heat dissipated the water streams.

4.3 Million Winter Wheat Acreage Placed in Soil Bank

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Agriculture Department reported today that wheat farmers have agreed to put 4,335,355 acres of 1957 winter wheat into the soil bank.

The agreements signed so far are somewhat under a third of the department's goal of putting 15 million wheat acres, both winter and spring varieties, into the soil bank for 1957. Winter wheat usually accounts for about two thirds of the total wheat crop.

Today's report covered 106,485
agreements signed by farmers up to Sept. 28. It compared with 79,985 agreements, covering 2,997-007 acres, signed by the end of the previous week.

The department said farmers will be eligible for soil bank payments of $79,781,774 if they comply with agreements so far signed.
Friday is the deadline for signing 1957 winter wheat agreements.
Farmers will be permitted to cancel or revise their contracts
under certain conditions.

The watermelon originated in

Belleville Firm to Audit County Books

Wilson, in answer to another question, said there had been no recommendations made as to who is hired.

Accountants Present

Tom Maxwell of Eldorado asked Wilson if any controversies had come up in any other offices besides the office of County Clerk Don B. Garrison since the grand jury investigation had started and Wilson answered:

"None that I know of."

In the discussion that followed it was agreed generally that all the county board could do would be to hire new auditors, that their work would be directed solely by the grand jury.

Present at the meeting were J. Paul Bedel and Don Rice, certified public accountants of the Belleville auditing firm, Rice and Bedel. They had been contacted by Alvin Gates and had come to Harrisburg. This firm has audited the books of the city of Harrisburg for more than a score of years and in answer to a question, said they could put three men on the audit if hired.

The grand jury is now in recess, pending the hiring of a new auditor or auditors. Before recessing the grand jury returned nine indictments against Garrison, Democrat serving his third term as clerk, charging him with embezzlement.

SIU Enrollment Record 6,056

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Incomplete registration of incoming students at Southern Illinois University reached 6,056 today, setting a new school enrollment record. Registrar Robert McGrath said late registrants plus the tally at the SIU Belleville Residence Center, where registration is now underway, is expected to boost the fall quarter resident enrollment to about 6,300.

The figure, including a record freshman class of 2,119, compares to an enrollment of 5,554 resident students of a year ago. The freshman total is 299 above last year.

Other classifications show 1,228 sophomores, 1,015 juniors, 642 seniors, 427 graduate students, 96 unclassified undergraduates and 529 Vocational-Technical Institute students.

The on-campus total shows men outnumbering women more than two to one, with 4,100 men enrolled to 1,896 women.

Other programs including extension, technical and adult education, and University School are expected to enroll nearly 3,000 additional persons for full and part-time study.

10 Killed in Canadian Crash

VIRIDEN, Man. — Ten persons were killed and one seriously injured late Thursday night when two automobiles collided head-on on the Trans-Canada Highway 10 miles southeast of here.

Woman Freed From Jail as 700 Sign Bond Petition

MARION, Ill. — The jail doors opened today for a 29-year-old mother charged with murdering her husband Sept. 1, and held without bail in Williamson county jail since then.

More than 700 persons from Williamson and Jackson counties signed petitions asking that Mrs. Ouida Cannon be granted bail. And some 100 friends showed up in court today when her attorneys presented the application for bail.

Circuit Judge Clarence Wright, Carbondale, granted the application and set bail at $25,000. State's Atty. Carl Sneed agreed to the setting and amount.

Mrs. Cannon posted the bail and was released pending her trial, expected to get under way next February, for the slaying of her husband, Raymond, 31. She has confessed to shooting him as he slept.

Mrs. Chas. Baird Dies Near Eldorado

Mrs. Annie Baird, 72, wife of Charles Baird, residing four miles north of Eldorado on RFD 2, died at 7:45 a. m. this morning. Her very unexpected death was due to a heart attack.

Her body was taken to the Martin funeral home and will be returned at 5 p. m. today to the residence, to lie in state there until Sunday afternoon, when the funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. at Centerville Primitive Baptist church, near Carmi. The Rev. Elijah Doty and the Rev. T. Leo Dodd will conduct the funeral service. Burial will be at Centerville cemetery.

Mrs. Baird leaves her husband, three sons and two daughters: John, Jake and Van Baird, Mrs. Verla Gwaltney, Eldorado, and Mrs. Verla Barringer, Carbondale. A brother, John McCarty, East Prairie, Mo., and seven grandchildren also survive.

Huge Crowd at Final Showing of Elks Minstrel

Largest crowd in the seven-year history of the Elks minstrel since the shows were revived in 1950 turned out last night to see the 1956 presentation at the Grand theatre.

The crowd was good the opening night, Wednesday, but last night the house was filled and persons desiring to see the Elks Minstrel and Revue were turned away.

The John B. Rogers Production, staged by Harvey Work, was excellent. The vocal solos were magnificent.

Last night was the final showing of the production, upon which local persons had been working with the director for the past two weeks. Net receipts of the show go into the Elks crippled children fund.

Mr. Work stated today that the people who perform get the credit but that plaudits should go to those unsung heroes, the stage and properties division, which handled the scenery and other props in fine fashion.

This group, he said, was composed of Owen Hunsinger and John Stump, co-chairman, and Carl P. Woolcott, Buck Russler Jr., Gordon Williams, Paul Vogel, Tom Wolf, Bud Wolf, John C. Wilson, Stanley Wilson Jr., John Cummins, John Dameron, Bert Gaskins, Bob Gaskins, Bill Franks, Forrest Groves, Gene Neihaus, Tom Hauptmann, Freeman Kincaid, James Maddox, John Molinarolo Jr., Harry McCabe, Gordon McGehee, Robert V. Wilson, Louie Questelle, George Rees, Quinn Stuby, Jim Sullivan, Frank Ripperdan, Horace Richey, Dwight Bolerjack, Ray Reinhardt, Russell Lynn, Harry Woolcott Jr., Andy Anderson and Bob Mitchell.

Dr. Skaggs Speaks To Students in Nurses' School

Speaking to the students enrolled in the practical nurses' school, being conducted in rooms at the Harrisburg Township high school, Dr. Frank Skaggs, president of the Saline County Medical society, officially welcomed the school and personnel.

Dr. Skaggs told the students there was a great need for practical nurses in the area. He emphasized the importance of training and technical knowledge but told the students that just as important was the attitude of the nurse toward the patient.

"To be successful, you must have sympathy, understanding and tenderness," Dr. Skaggs told the student nurses.

It was announced that various physicians in the Harrisburg area would visit the school and give any assistance possible.

The school started Monday, Oct. 1. Mrs. Shirley Oshel, R. N., is co-ordinator of nurses and in charge of classroom instruction.

Mother of Slain Child Enters Hospital

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. — Mrs. Eleanor Ruotolo, 29, mother of kidnaped and slain Cynthia Ruotolo of Hamden, has been admitted to Middletown State (mental) Hospital at her own request, authorities said today.

Spokesmen at the hospital would not elaborate on her condition. Her 29-year-old husband, Stephen, a Marine Corps veteran, was not available for comment.

State's Atty. Abraham S. Ullman said "Mrs. Ruotolo applied for admission voluntarily."

Mrs. Ruotolo, a former waitress, had been questioned extensively by FBI agents and police after she reported her 6-week-old baby kidnaped from an unattended carriage in the Sears-Roebuck store at Hamden Sept. 1.

The baby's body was found in nearby Lake Whitney five days later.

Calling Off H-Tests Foolish: Eisenhower

complishments. The President said that in World War II he became the first combat commander who ever used Negro troops on the battlefield mixed in with white troops. He agreed that general desegregation in the armed forces ran into opposition in some military quarters and that he believed after the war that general desegregation might cause some trouble.

But when the Republicans came into power in 1953, he said, he decided it was time to eliminate segregation where the federal government had authority to do so. And that, he said, is what he did.

3. The President, in reply to questions, said he believes the two-term presidential limitation was unwise. He said he believes the Constitution had all the qualifications for president that were needed before the two-term amendment was added. Mr. Eisenhower said he doubts that a second term president would lose power, because any man who hopes to succeed him would want the President's blessing.

4. Mr. Eisenhower said his reelection campaign isn't being conducted quite the way he originally hoped. That, he said, is because he has found it necessary to clear away what he called the underbrush of opposition misstatements and get the facts before the people.

5. He said Vice President Richard M. Nixon reported that his recent 32-state campaign trip was most encouraging. The President said Nixon told him he encountered the largest and most enthusiastic crowds of his political career, and found the American people quite happy. He said Nixon did not ask him to step up his campaigning. The vice president told him to just go on doing what he has been doing, the President said.

More Campaign Trips

6. Asked whether he thought the $1 minimum wage should be raised again, Mr. Eisenhower said he first wanted it extended to cover people who haven't got it now. He said whenever the minimum is raised, it becomes harder for the man who is not covered to get coverage, because the difference between his wage and the minimum is getting greater all the time.

7. He said it has always been his administration's policy to increase the tactical strength of the armed forces. He said there has never been any announcement of any plans to reduce the strength of the U. S. Army. But he said new weapons may make it possible for the Army to carry out its mission with fewer men. He said that since the Korean War Army strength has, in fact, been reduced by about 700,000 men.

8. Mr. Eisenhower said he has no firm plans for political appearances beyond those already announced. But he made it clear there will be some more campaign trips by him. He said he would like to make about one short trip a week because he likes to go out and see people. Mr. Eisenhower carries his second-term campaign to Pittsburgh next week and immediately follows this up with a swing into Minnesota, Oregon and Washington.

9. Mr. Eisenhower asserted that what he is trying to do in this campaign is to stick to the truth. He said some people have said he does not receive the truth from the men around him. But the President said he has had a lot of experience in running organizations and he thinks he knows pretty well what's going on.

Mr. Eisenhower said Nixon reported to him that some people are concerned by the farm issue and local problems of unemployment and drought, but that on the whole Nixon found the people quite happy.

Mayor Proclaims Employ Physically Handicapped Week

Mayor Claud Gibbons today proclaimed the week beginning Oct. 7 as Employ the Physically Handicapped Week in Harrisburg and called upon industry, labor, and civic, fraternal, women's, agricultural, veterans' and other organizations and groups, as well as citizens generally to participate in the observance and lend their support to the program.

"I urge employers to co-operate with the Illinois State Employment Service in the placement of handicapped workers by reviewing their job requirements to determine jobs which can be filled by disabled persons," the proclamation said.

It also pointed out that an individual's ability—not his disability—should be the basis on which he or she is considered for a job; that handicapped persons have proved to be competent, productive workers; that it is essential that a public educational program designed to encourage increased employment opportunities for the handicapped be continued.

Late for Appointment

Mrs. Hodge was asked by newsmen if she planned to file suit against Miss Lillie. She glanced at Shenker who answered "it hasn't reached that point yet."

Wallace quoted Mrs. Hodge as telling him she spent most of her time in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and had no chance to know anything of her husband's activities.

Asked about the Esquire apartment hotel her husband owned in Florida, Mrs. Hodge told Wallace, "I worked like hell in Florida."

Mrs. Hodge, 15 minutes late for her appointment, was kept waiting another five minutes by Wallace.

"Well, I hoped you would be prompt and save us from all this," she told Wallace, pointing at more than 50 reporters gathered about her. "This is a disgrace."

Polish Trawler Sinks; 10 Trapped

IJMUUDEN, The Netherlands — A capsized Polish trawler sank in the North Sea late Thursday night with 10 crew-members trapped inside in a huge air bubble that kept them alive for more than six hours.

A Norwegian rescue tug rushing to the scene with cutting torches to free the men was only 55 miles away when the fishing vessel Cyranaka disappeared beneath the storm-whipped waves.

The trapped men were kept alive to the last minute by the big bubble in the hull, witnesses said. They were heard beating frantically on the steel walls of the ship as it sank.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Basketball is still young as far as the 1956-57 season is concerned, but Coach Bob Dallas at Ridgway is already high on one of his prospects, a sophomore.

Roger "Hooks" Sutner, who as a 6-6 freshman showed much promise, is now two inches taller, more confident and moves around the floor fairly agile.

Sutner has a nice touch on the ball, shoots either a left handed hook or an overhead two-handed. Either way the ball is "way over the head of the average size player. The big boy may not develop into a star this year, but before he has graduated two years from now, Sutner should rewrite the scoring records for Ridgway and maybe over a much larger area.

Oliver Rollins, Carrier Mills' gift to the Harlem Globe Trotters, will join the Trotters next Monday for the start of a practice period, preparing for a winter-long tour of the United States.

Rollins was in Europe this summer with the Trotters, but has been at home the past month resting up between the two tours.

The Trotters' home is in Chicago. The players are all to report there Monday and then about Nov. 1 the squad will be divided into three groups and play exhibition games in practically every community—both large and small—in the United States during the next five months.

Bob Laffoon, co-captain of the 1955 Eldorado high school football team, is the only Saline county player on the SIU football squad.

Laffoon is holding down the second team center spot and has seen considerable action so far.

Laffoon is back of John Ambromovitch, a husky letterman and the team's leading punter.

A Mt. Carmel native, Gib Mains, is being counted on as a regular with the professional Detroit Lions.

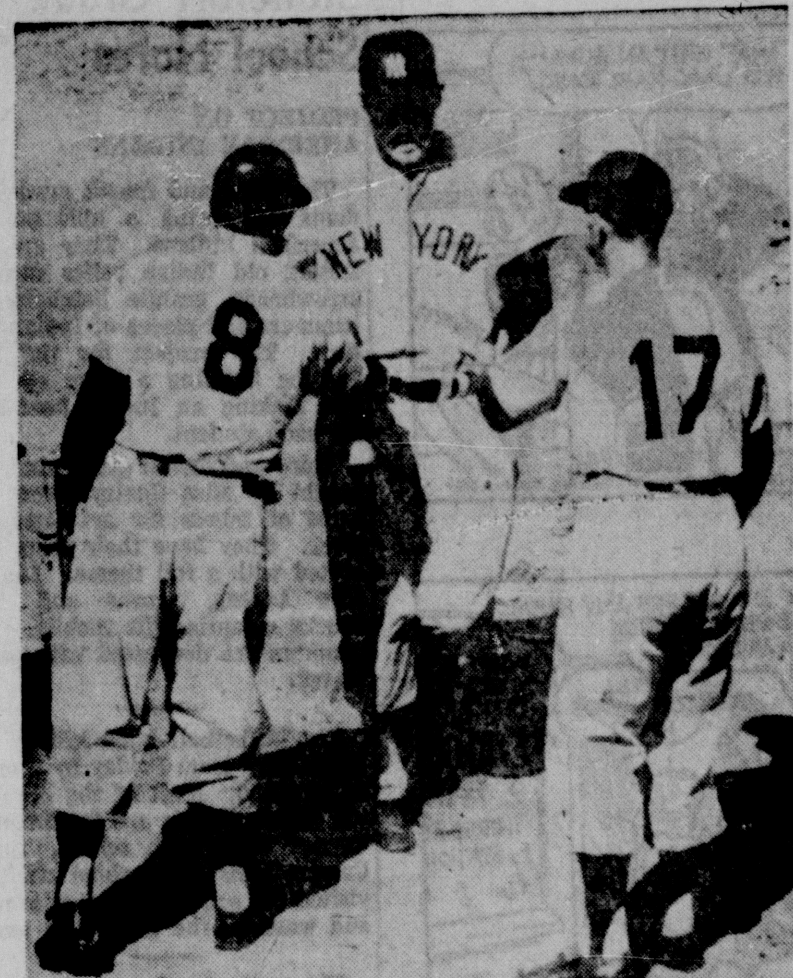

An article in the Mt. Carmel Republican-Register of several days ago, stated Mains was sold as a defensive right end.

He is 6-3 and weighs 235 pounds. During the off season Mains keeps in condition by wrestling. During the past season he participated in 150 matches.

Marion, once a "breather" on high school football schedules, is really showing an awakening this year. The varsity team has lost only once in three starts and the "B" team has won three in a row.

George Langan of Cairo released a lineman's dream last Friday night. Linemen often think of how wonderful it would be to score a TD and last week against Sikeston Langan scored twice. He recovered fumbles and scored on runs of 15 and 35 yards.

Lester Fequay, Eldorado's Junior halfback, is the leading scorer in southern Illinois with 43 points. Fequay scored three TDs against Anna, two against McLeansboro and two in last Friday's Eldorado - at Harrisburg game. He also has come up with one PAT.

Michigan State Favored Over Michigan In Top Big Ten Football Battle

CHICAGO (AP)—Michigan State and Michigan, ranked second and fourth nationally, collide Saturday in a major Big Ten grid battle to highlight the conference program.

The Spartans, runners-up to Ohio State for the league crown last year and Rose Bowl winners, were 3 point favorites for the Ann Arbor brawl. A crowd of 101,000, largest ever to see a Big Ten team in action, will watch the spectacle.

Only one other conference game was on the program, Purdue at Minnesota. Each team has won its only start, the Gophers surprisingly over Washington and Purdue over Missouri. Minnesota was a touchdown choice for the scrap.

Big Ten teams were favorites in three of the non-conference contests, but an equal number of conference clubs were underdogs.

Indiana and Notre Dame, each beaten in their only appearance, meet at South Bend and the Irish were a 20-point choice. Northwestern, at home, was a 7 point underdog to Tulane. Wisconsin, also at home, was rated a touchdown behind the unbeaten Trojans from Southern California.

Eagles Seek Victory No. Four Tonight

It's number four two ways for the Eldorado Eagles as they prepare for the invasion of the Christopher Bearcats this evening.

The Eagles will be looking for victory number four of the 1956 football season and also will be starting a four-game home stand.

Starting with tonight's game against Christopher, Eldorado will be host four consecutive Friday nights—with Carmi, West Frankfort and Cairo following Christopher in visiting the Eagle gridiron. Then Eldorado finishes the season with two games on the road.

The Eagles—with victories over Anna, McLeansboro and Harrisburg—shouldn't have much difficulty racking up the fourth win of the year.

Christopher has a record of one victory and two defeats to date. In the season's opener Christopher was toppled by Du Quoin 18-6 and the following week Sesser took a 27-19 decision. Last Friday Christopher entered the win column with a 13-6 decision over Elkhart.

Christopher's two TDs were scored by Howard Williams, once on a 65-yard run after cracking off tackle and another on a four-yard plunge following a long down field march.

Eldorado's offensive has featured explosive running by two halfbacks, Don Gwaltney and Lester Fequay. Either can go "all the way," having several runs of 50 yards or more to their credit. The Eagle blockers have come up with key blocks to keep the scabbards in the open enough times to put Eldorado on top.

Eldorado came out of last Friday's game with only minor injuries and appears in top shape for the Christopher visit.

Game time is 7:30.

Local fans are invited out to see this game.

Frick Ordered Postponement To Insure Having Series Games Go Full Distance

BROOKLYN (AP)—Ford Frick said today he postponed the second game of the World Series "to avoid the nightmare that's haunted me since I became commissioner."

"No World Series game has ever been stopped short of nine innings," Frick pointed out. "And I believe it's part of my job to see that every series game goes the full distance—so that no team can ever feel that it was beaten by the weather."

Frick called off Thursday's scheduled second game at 11:07 a. m. EDT after a 10-minute conference with the six umpires and rival Managers Walt Alston and Casey Stengel. Only the commissioner has the authority to delay the start of a Series game or postpone it.

Frick arrived at Ebbets Field at 10:30 a. m. Thursday and indicated from the start he leaned toward postponing the game. He quickly won agreement from Alston and the umpires but had to wait a half hour before Stengel arrived at the park. Stengel, who the quipsters said was delayed because he was making the rounds looking for pitcher Don Larsen, also agreed without argument.

"We were all in 100 per cent agreement," Frick disclosed after the conference. "In view of the adverse weather report for later in the day both managers agreed it wouldn't be fair to either team to play a game that could be terminated at any point."

Stengel Urges Full Series Share For Slaughter

BROOKLYN (AP)—Enos (Country) Slaughter, already voted a half-share by his Yankee teammates, can make it a full one with a "good series," and if he does, he'll have Casey Stengel to thank.

Generous as usual in their splitting up of the World Series melon, the Yankee players decided to give Slaughter half a share even though he joined them from Kansas City on Aug. 26 and appeared in only 23 games for the Yanks.

Stengel, long an admirer of Slaughter's hustle and his 100 per cent effort for any club he has played with, felt Enos deserved a full share and told the players so. It was finally decided to wait and see how the 40-year-old ex-Cardinal performed against the Dodgers in the Series.

Slaughter, unaware of Casey's intercession for him because he wasn't present when the shares were being voted, got off to a fine start against Brooklyn in the opener Wednesday, rapping out three hits even though the Yankees lost.

In order to change their original vote and award Slaughter a full share, the Yankees would have to call another meeting among themselves following the Series. Although the procedure would be unusual, there is no rule forbidding it.

Benton Player Is Suspended

BENTON, Ill. (AP)—A star football player on the Benton high school team has been suspended for the remainder of the season for allegedly slugging a Marion player in a game Friday.

A Benton school spokesman said today that Tom Kays, senior class president and star tackle, will not play in any remaining games. Benton is one of the favorites in the South Seven conference title race.

Albert Willis, executive secretary of the Illinois High School Assn., had asked Benton school officials to take "appropriate" action in the incident.

No Change in World Series Odds

BROOKLYN (AP)—The World Series betting odds remained unchanged after Thursday's postponement.

Today's rain-delayed second game, with the Dodgers' Don Newcombe opposing the Yankees' Don Larsen, still was rated a "pick 'em" affair. Despite their opening game defeat, the Yankees remained slight 11-10 favorites to win the Series.

PROJECT ON AMERICAN INDIANS

The third and fourth grade students are doing a unit on the American Indians. They are collecting old Indian relics such as arrowheads, granite hatchets and hammers and pieces of Indian pottery. The project for the unit will be building a large wigwam and making an Indian headdress for each student.

Third and fourth grade students, taught by Miss Gurley, drew pictures of zebras for art class last week. They have their room decorated with a fall theme. Leaves, corn tassels, acorns and corn shucks comprise the mobile. The windows are decorated with paper leaves.

The basketball team lost to last year's first team Friday by a score of 32 to 30. Most of the boys on the winning team are freshmen at the Carrier Mills high school. Some Carrier Mills high school students visited the school Friday afternoon and watched the basketball game.

The audio-visual program got underway Oct. 2 with the free film "The World That Nature Forgot." The film for next week, Oct. 9, will be "Scrub Game" and will round out an upper grade health unit on "The Skin."

The school is most grateful to the board for the following: Installation of a new furnace, new window shades in the seventh and eighth grade rooms and a new duplicator. The teachers are especially grateful for the duplicator.

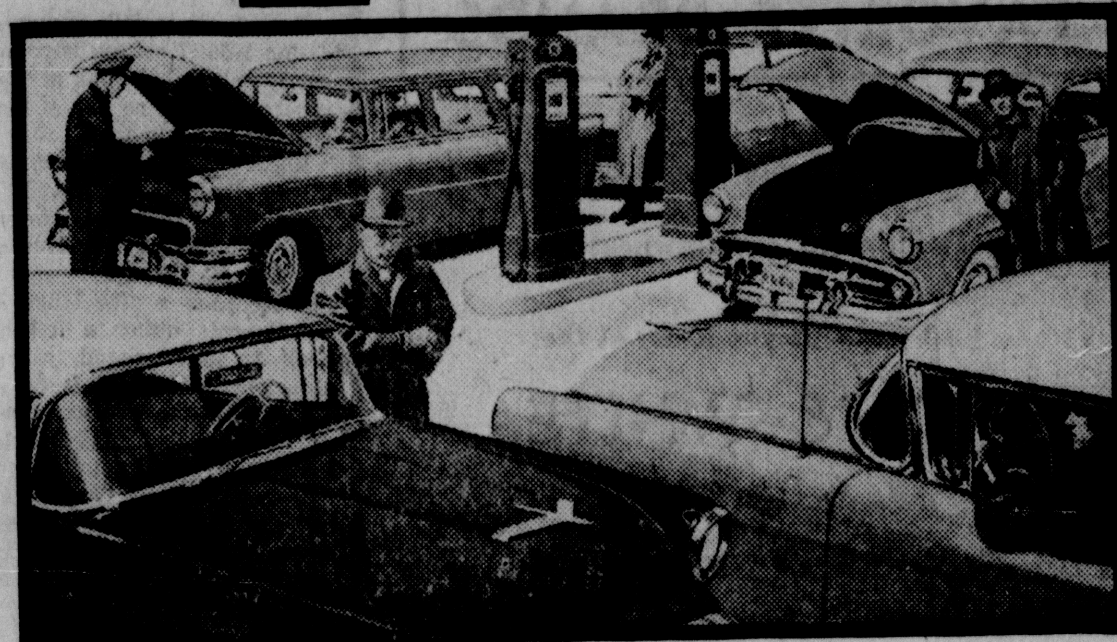

The chorus is now working on these songs, "Danny Boy," "All Through the Night" and "Sweet and Low." They hope to be able to sing these songs at the new P. T. A. meeting Oct. 9. All school patrons are urged to attend P. T. A. meetings to support the school, teachers and children.
